A Quicker Bargain.

Jeff Bryant and his brother Abe each owned large tracts of land near here, and they were bachelors.

One day the brothers agreed that the one that married first should have the other's land in addition to his own. One Sunday about nine years ago Abe called at Jeff's house.

"Good morning, Jeff."

"How do you, my boy," answered Jeff.

"Jeff, you remember that marriage agreement we made?" asked Abe.

"Well, I reckon I do," said Abe.

"What about it?"

"I'm going to be married Wednesday. Are you ready to keep the agreement?"

"Sure as you're alive," answered Jeff.

"I hain't got no use for a man as will go back on his word."

"Well, you are right, Jeff, and you shall be my best man."

So the compact was sealed, but Jeff did not intend to give up his 1,000 acres so easily. He just fooled Abe. Instead of waiting for Abe to get married on Wednesday, Jeff hitched up and called on a neighbor's daughter and proposed that very Sunday night. He was accepted, and they were married Monday. Then he went to Abe, saying:

"Abe, that little agreement of ours, you remember?"

"Yes, well."

"Well, I was married this morning, and want to know if you allow to keep your promise?"

"Well, this is a little embarrassing time, but I reckon it's all right. I'll keep my word."

And he did. Abe transferred his property to Jeff. On Wednesday Abe was married as per contract, and went to live on a rented tract of land.

Singularly enough the brothers have been good friends all these years.—Covington Post.

OPENING THE CANAL.

The most acceptable proposition that can be made to persons troubled with chronic constipation, is to open that important canal—the bowels. That proposition can be carried out by the parties interested if they resort to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the most effective, most gentle alterative, extant. It is the mistake of many otherwise sensible people, that they resort to drastic, or, in other words, violent purgatives. Without exaggeration, this is highly injurious, since such medicines weaken the bowels besides causing convulsions both them and the stomach with pain. Relief sought from the bowels comes freely enough, but they never produce pain, excessive action, or the subsequent weakness of the bowels. Liver and kidney trouble, malaria, dyspepsia, lack of stamina and a tendency to rheumatism, are remedied by this pleasant substitute for purging cathartics.

An Undisputed Test of Merit.
A medicine that has been a household remedy for over fifty years and used in that time by more than $150,000,000 persons must have great merit. Such a medicine is found in Brandreth's Pills. This fact demonstrates the value of these pills better than any statement of the proprietor. It will be observed that the dose required to cure is small. One or two pills taken every night for ten or twenty days will cure dyspepsia, constipation, rheumatism, liver complaint, biliousness, or any disease arising from an impure state of the blood.

Brandreth's Pills are purely vegetable, absolutely harmless, and safe to take at any time.
Sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar coated.
